Straits Pond In Rough Straits

Strait's Pond is in bad straits.

The mile-long pond which could be an admirable recreational facility is choked with weeds.

Not only that, but former heavyweight wrestling champion Steve (Crusher) Casey who is a Cedar Lane resident and now coaches young scullers in what is just one of his many interests, claims the flood gate is the principal culprit and in need of replacement.

"The water doesn't flow in and out properly," complains Casey. "During the early spring, there are thousands of herring running into the pond. Because of the situation, they can't get out."

There also is a smell from the weed infestation. Unless something is done to correct the situation, it's only going to get worse."

The problem has been that the pond lies in both Cohasset and Hull, and the two communities so far have been unable to agree on who does what to correct the situation.

If they could, then perhaps they could apply jointly to the state for funding assistance to correct the deteriorating weed condition.

Norwell only last week was advised that it had received approval by the state for a $10,000 grant representing 75% of the cost of harvesting weeds in Jacobs Pond.

The town must produce the other 25% which was voted by Town Meeting on condition the state money became available.

Under any similar arrangement, it would mean Cohasset and Hull each would only have to come up with 12.5% of the cost if state approval can be obtained.

And a fine water facility would be kept from going down the drain.

MORE PUPILS of Cohasset Coach Casey put their lessons to test with the lower scull manned by Ron Reese and Mike Casey.
